AT A GLANCE · SEPTEMBER 2026

The Market in 60 Seconds

Supply is down from a year ago in both property types, sharply so. Here are the four key measures for each, side by side.

Single-Family Homes

vs. September 2025

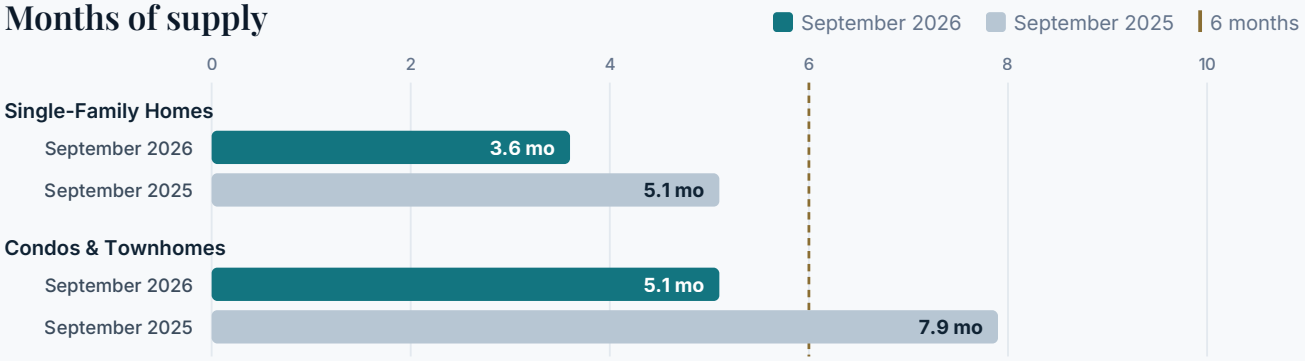

MEDIAN SALE PRICE	CLOSED SALES
$600,000	168
↑ +5.3% from $570,000	↓ −4.0% from 175
ACTIVE INVENTORY	MONTHS OF SUPPLY
682	3.6
↓ −18.1% from 833	↓ −29.4% from 5.1

Condos & Townhomes

vs. September 2025

MEDIAN SALE PRICE	CLOSED SALES
$237,500	90
↑ +8.0% from $220,000	↑ +13.9% from 79
ACTIVE INVENTORY	MONTHS OF SUPPLY
463	5.1
↓ −24.8% from 616	↓ −35.4% from 7.9

Months of supply

Months of supply = active inventory ÷ recent monthly sales pace. Lower means tighter supply. Roughly 6 months is widely used as a general reference point for a balanced market.

SINGLE-FAMILY HOMES

3.6 months

Seller-leaning

Supply down from 5.1 months; median days to contract fell from 62 to 39.

CONDOS & TOWNHOMES

5.1 months

Balanced, tightening

Supply down from 7.9 months on 24.8% fewer listings; sales closed at 92.3% of original list price.

YEAR OVER YEAR

The Numbers

Every figure below is as reported for Martin County. Percent change is year over year, September 2026 versus September 2025.

Single-Family Homes

INTERPRETATION

What the Numbers Say

What the September 2026 figures point to, tied directly to the tables on page 3.

−18.1%
SINGLE-FAMILY ACTIVE LISTINGS

There is less to choose from than a year ago.

Active single-family listings fell to 682 from 833, and condo/townhome listings fell 24.8% to 463. Both property types have fewer homes on the market than in September 2025.

39
SINGLE-FAMILY DAYS TO CONTRACT

Single-family homes went under contract quickly.

The median fell from 62 days to 39, a drop of 37.1%. With supply at 3.6 months, down from 5.1, and sales closing at 94.6% of original list price, the single-family side leans to sellers.

5.1 mo
CONDO/TOWNHOME MONTHS OF SUPPLY

Condo supply tightened considerably.

Supply dropped from 7.9 to 5.1 months, the largest move in either property type, on 24.8% fewer active listings. Closings rose 13.9% to 90 and sales closed at 92.3% of original list price, up from 89.0%.

89
CONDO/TOWNHOME DAYS TO CONTRACT

Condos still took longer to go under contract.

The median rose from 80 days to 89, so even with supply tightening, a condo or townhome listing should be planned around a longer marketing period than a house.

90
CONDO/TOWNHOME CLOSINGS

Read the +8.0% condo median with care.

The median was $237,500 against $220,000 a year earlier, on 90 closings. At that volume the mix of which buildings and price points traded moves the median more than any change in what units are worth.

33.3%
SINGLE-FAMILY

58.9%
CONDO/TOWNHOME

CASH SHARE (CALCULATED)

Cash buyers remain a large part of the market.

33.3% of single-family closings (56 of 168) and 58.9% of condo/townhome closings (53 of 90) were paid in cash, calculated from the reported counts.

County figures blend distinct local markets, including Stuart, Palm City, Jensen Beach, Hobe Sound and Port Salerno, and conditions in any one of them can differ from the county median.

PRACTICAL GUIDANCE

For Buyers & For Sellers

The same county data calls for different moves depending on which side of the transaction you are on, and which property type you are dealing with.

For Buyers

Single-Family Homes

3.6 mo supply · 39 days · 94.6% of list

- Be ready to act.
  At 3.6 months of supply and 39 median days to contract, down from 62, have a pre-approval or proof of funds in hand before you tour.
- Anchor offers to closed sales.
  Sales closed at 94.6% of original list price. With 33.3% of closings in cash (calculated), clean terms help financed offers compete.

Condos & Townhomes

5.1 mo supply · 89 days · 92.3% of list

- Negotiate, but expect less give than last year.
  Supply fell from 7.9 to 5.1 months and sales closed at 92.3% of original list price, up from 89.0%. There is still measured room on price, credits or repairs.
- Do the building homework.
  Use the 89-day median to review the budget, reserves, assessments and inspections. If financing, confirm lender eligibility for the building early.

For Sellers

Single-Family Homes

3.6 mo supply · 39 days · 94.6% of list

- Supply favors you. Price still decides.
  With 3.6 months of supply and days to contract down to 39, homes priced to recent closed sales are drawing buyers.
- Don't overshoot the first price.
  Sellers received 94.6% of original list price. Starting too high risks reductions after the first weeks on market.

Condos & Townhomes

5.1 mo supply · 89 days · 92.3% of list

- Conditions improved, but plan for time on market.
  Supply tightened to 5.1 months and sales closed at 92.3% of original list price. Median days to contract still rose to 89, so build that timeline into your plan.
- Don't price off the headline.
  The +8.0% median reflects only 90 closings. Price from comparable sales in your building or community, with association documents ready.
